Oxfordshire training company delivers mentoring project for Domino's

Oxfordshire business training and mentoring specialists The Learning Ladder are extending a major partnership agreement with the UK and Ireland's leading pizza delivery company, Domino's.

The Learning Ladder, www.tlltraining.co.uk, has used its award-winning expertise in mentoring to work with senior managers and other key staff at Domino's Pizza headquarters in Milton Keynes. It's also delivering a range of training programmes for them on topics ranging from objective setting, presentation techniques, negotiation skills and a range of HR topics.

Based on the success of the first year, Domino's and The Learning Ladder are planning a new training and mentoring programme for 2012/13. The project began with The Learning Ladder training a group of directors and senior and middle managers at Domino's to be mentors, so that they can embed the process in the firm and mentor members of their teams.

Jane Franks, HR Director, says: "We have really enjoyed working with The Learning Ladder over the past year and have found the mentoring scheme to be extremely worthwhile, both to individual employees who have gone through the programme and the wider business as a whole. At Domino's, we are passionate about development and we are pleased to work with The Learning Ladder in developing our people. The feedback we have received from our team members has been especially positive and we look forward to more team members benefiting from this scheme in 2012."

The Learning Ladder MD, Karyn Buck, says: "It has been brilliant for us as a training and mentoring company to work with such a dynamic and fast-growing business. We've been able to use the mentoring expertise we've developed successfully for a range of public and private sector organisations to support Domino's, and we're looking forward to building on that in the year ahead."

As the partnership moves into its second year The Learning Ladder will work with another group of Domino's staff to focus on specialist skills that are critical to its business and operations.

The Learning Ladder's skills training covers the four key areas of business: People, Finance, Sales & Marketing and Operations. It runs regular open training courses at its headquarters in Chalgrove, Oxfordshire and offers a range of in-company training and skills or personal development courses.
